NEVADA EMPRESS TO RESUME WORK

HAS 2,000 FEET OF OLD WORKINGS

GRANITE MOUNTAIN MINE ALSO UNDERGOING HEAVY DEVELOPMENT

(Special Bonanza Correspondence)
GOLDFIELD, June 17.—The Nevada Co-operative Mining company has begun work on the Nevada Empress group at Gold Mountain, 42 miles southeast of Goldfield. Joe Mayer and a working force, with a wagonload of supplies, left yesterday morning for the camp, which has been silent since the days of Captain Sills in 1907 when litigation caused a suspension of work. Joe Mayer knows more about Gold Mountain than any other man in Nevada. He is so familiar with the district that he can count each turn taken by the early prospectors and every move in the opening of each individual property in the district. He can indulge in a retrospect that carries the listener back for 40 years when the Silver Peak excitement was at its zenith and big mining was done in the district.

The first undertaking will be to clean out the old workings representing over 2000 feet of tunnel and drifts. This will not take long as the mine was found in first-class shape when inspected by Consulting Engineer Turner two weeks ago. The most remarkable feature was the appearance of the timbering in the stopes where it was installed some thirty years ago when the Empress was mined for high grade. At that time nothing but picture rock could be extracted at a profit as all ore had to be hauled by ox team to Austin, Nev., a distance of 140 miles. These native pinon timbers are as free from discoloration or weather stains and as white and clean as the day they were placed in the mine.

While the mine is being cleaned out Foreman Mayer will proceed to sample every 15 feet of the drifts. These samples will guide Engineer Turner in perfecting plans for development. In the first place it is proposed to raise from the crosscut tunnel, at a distance of 920 feet from the portal, to catch the downward extension of the vein. This will call for extending the tunnel a distance of 70 feet. The raise will be put up 30 feet vertically, in solid granite, that will obviate the use of timbers and hold down operating costs to a minimum. It is expected that the vein, which measures 4 feet in width and averages values from $20 to $25, will be cut at that height. The highest workings are 263 feet vertically or 500 feet on the dip of the vein. The Empress includes seven mineral and three water claims and has five tunnels in ore.

It is interesting to observe that the Empress is just over the hill and about two miles from the Granite Mountain mine, owned by what is probably the strongest aggregation of millionaires of the east operating in Nevada. These comprise Senator William Flinn, the owner of the Pittsburg Dispatch; Mrs. Genevieve Phipps of Denver, and half a dozen associates of Andrew Carnegie. This company shuns notoriety but prosecutes work on a most extensive scale for the purpose of proving up a vast body of ore before elaborating its plans. Part of the work of this company is represented by a tunnel driven 1385 feet through solid granite to cut the ledge which dipped at that angle. Joe Mayer is superintendent of the Granite Mountain and he says he is going to have his hands full this summer. At the Empress he has a splendid boarding house, cooking and sleeping accommodations, the old company having been most generous in providing comforts for its employees to serve as a counter attraction to the allurements of Goldfield when it was day all day in the daytime.

STUDYING SUGAR IN THE HUMAN BLOOD

EXPERIMENTS ARE BEING CONDUCTED BY ROCKEFELLER INSTITUTE

(Associated Press)
BOSTON, Mass., June 18.—An announcement made in the proceedings of the national academy of science this month tells of the progress which investigators at the Rockefeller institute for medical research in New York are making in the study of sugar in human blood and the function of the pancreas in eliminating it.
In diabetes the amount of dextrose (sugar) in the blood is higher than normal, and when it is sufficiently high, it escapes through the kidneys. Messrs. Kleiner and Meltzer of the Rockefeller institute of medical research announce that experiments on animals from which the pancreas had been removed show that the ability of the animal to get rid readily of surplus sugar injected into the veins is greatly impaired, and that the ability to get rid of the sugar can be temporarily restored by injecting a pancreatic emulsion into the veins. The authors are still at work upon the problem, but appear satisfied that the internal secretions of the pancreas determine the ability of an animal to regulate the sugar-content of the blood.

WAY DOWN SOUTH

The Dixie Minstrels will appear at the Butler theater on Sunday—matinee and evening performance, reproducing the famous scene taken at Palm Beach, Fla., at one of the magnificent hotels where it is customary to entertain the winter tourists with real darkey performers, and it is this custom that has given birth to the minstrel show which is now so popular throughout the country. The beautiful palms and other floral scenes are all shown in the scenery carried by this attraction, and to hear the beautiful singing of the darkeys and the sight of the pretty chorus of creole girls, with their many changes of gorgeous costumes, make a striking appearance, is enough to make one feel that he is really way down in the Sunny South.—AdvJ1

AMUSEMENTS

PASTIME THEATER

Irving Cummings, daredevil among leading men, has rarely done a more thrilling stunt than that shown in "The Lure of the Mask," the four-part Mutual Masterpicture founded upon Harold MacGrath's celebrated and popular novel. "The Lure of the Mask" will be shown at the Pastime today. Also some extra good special reels.

Eight more big prizes given away tonight, immediately after the first show. It's bargain day again, and some rare bargains will be secured by patrons.

Tomorrow something out of the ordinary in pictures will be shown: Carlyle Blackwell in "The High Hand," from the novel by Jacques Futrelle, and being an inspiring romance of love, politics, capital and labor. The big Fox feature, "The Children of the Ghetto," featuring Wilton Lackaye, together with the celebrated Paramount travel pictures, will be the bill on Sunday. Many of the features to be seen at the Pastime are never exhibited outside for less than 25 and 50 cents.—Adv.

AIRDOME

With the opening of moving pictures at the Airdome Sunday the two special features of the five-reel program are of unusual merit, both featuring stars of the highest type in their respective roles. Charlie Chaplin will be seen in "His Trysting Place" and the actions of this popular comedian in the lovers' retreat keeps the audience in an uproar from the first scene to the last. William S. Hart is seen at his best in the two-reel feature of frontier life, "The Roughneck." Mr. Hart made his first appearance at the Airdome June 10th in "The Grudge."
